The promise were made by Councilman Claude Ashley and others. The vote was as follows:

For the resolution to one-eighth, Aldermen Wilder, Garner, McLen, Davis, Goodhart, Williamson and Carpenter, and Councilmen Wardlaw, Renfro, Martin, Woodall, Stone, Ashley, Gordon, Etheridge, Hoffman, Buchanan, Jones and Sims.

Against the resolution, Aldermen Seawright, Cochran and Chosewood, and Councilmen Wood, Couch, Richards, Nutting, Bagg, Anderson, Callaway, Alford and Murphy.

To Abolish Boards. The resolution to abolish the boards, those created by ordinance, was introduced by Councilmen Woodall and Sims. The park board was included, but the city attorney said that it is a charter board, and it was stricken by an amendment.

Under provision of the resolution the boards will not be dissolved until January 1, 1922. In the event the measure is approved by the council, the Grady hospital board will be vested in the hospitals and charities committee of council, the duties of the cemetery commission would be placed in the hands of the cemetery committee.

The measure is approved by the council on electric lights, telephone and telephone.

That Mayor Key may veto the resolution was seen in a statement by Councilman J. R. Nutting, who vigorously opposed the resolution of the boards; that the mayor told him that the resolution would be a "calamity."

The vote was 24 to 7 as follows: For, Aldermen Seawright, Cochran, Wilder, Garner, McLen, Davis, Williamson, Carpenter, and Councilmen Wardlaw, Renfro, Martin, Woodall, Stone, Ashley, Gordon, Etheridge, Hoffman, Buchanan, Jones, Sims, Callaway and Alford.

Against abolition, Aldermen Chosewood, Goodhart, and Councilmen Nutting, Bagg, Anderson and Murphy.

Fight on Charter Boards. If the measure to do away with the ordinance boards is approved, the next fight will be on the charter boards, which are the police, water and park. The first step as already been taken. A resolution by Councilman Woodall is before the charter revision committee.

The request the legislature to amend the charter so as to abolish the boards operating under charter authority.

The charter revision committee will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Council stamped its approval on the petition of the Irish to conduct public solicitation of funds in Atlanta for the suffering of Ireland, and the matter now rests in the hands of the mayor, who has been opposing the proposed Irish drive.

His decision on the matter is awaited with considerable interest. View of council's action follows the controversy between the mayor and the Irish. The relief committee asserts that the money will be used for a humanitarian purpose solely, while the mayor professes to be skeptical and asserts that he is not sure some of the funds will not be used for political ends in Ireland.

Bankers to Meet In New Orleans To Perfect Plans

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, April 4.—Following the executive meeting of southern bankers with the War Finance corporation tonight, looking to government co-operation in the exporting of cotton, a joint meeting of directors of the Federal International Banking Company of New Orleans, the directors of the Regional Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, and the directors of the branch Federal Reserve Bank of New Orleans has been called for next Saturday, April 9, at New Orleans, at which will be present also two or more directors of the War Finance corporation.

This meeting will be in the interest of the movement initiated today for proper co-ordination of the three instruments for extension in foreign credits in order that the normal demand overseas for American produced cotton may be met. It will also take further action toward the establishment of a Webb-Pomeroy banking institution to supply the missing link in the chain of co-ordination necessary under the law to pool American cotton for export under a financial system that those countries, in their present depressed conditions, may satisfactorily accept.

The Federal International Banking company, of which R. P. Maddox and J. K. Otley, of Atlanta, are directors, will become the nucleus for the financial corporation system, which the War Finance corporation is now seeking to establish, with its own functional powers as the government's part of the system.

The president of the Federal International Banking company, which has been capitalized at $7,000,000, is Archibald Kains, and Harold Dreaher is vice president. The latter will leave for Europe after the present plans have sufficiently matured to make a further concrete study of individual credit conditions in Europe looking to the functioning of this co-ordinated undertaking.

The charter revision committee will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

ful of direct results. It made seven paramount facts stand out like the legs of a pot, as follows:

Severe Main Facts.

That the production and exportation of cotton represented the nation's greatest commercial asset, and that the cotton problem is a national one.

That there are approximately 8,000,000 bales of American grown cotton unsold and for which there is today no real, or spirited market, even at existing depressed prices.

Production Must Drop. That unless production is curtailed at least to between 7,000,000 and 8,000,000 bales as a maximum during 1921-22, the whole nation will suffer a disaster that it will take years to recover from.

That bankers must not force farmers into liquidation at this time, where the obligations are satisfactory moral and thrifty risks, but must under no condition encourage by operating loans cotton planting beyond 50 per cent of normal acreage.

That four crops in plenty and a diversification in other than cotton money crops must be forced by the bankers through legitimate methods.

That the country is safe and sound, the lack of depression being in the past, and that with constructive far-reaching business policies of reconstruction the economic future of America is assured in spite of the calamity-howling and business pessimists.

Business Is Safer. That business on the present price level is much safer than it was on the price level a year ago.

That all of these are dependent, however, upon cooperation between bankers and growers, but between the interested groups and the government, and between the supply merchants and fertilizer manufacturers as well.

At the rather informal open conference in the forenoon Chairman Myers, managing director of the War Finance corporation, expressed a keen desire that the agency should assist in a tangible plan to move cotton across seas, emphasizing the importance of cotton as a factor in the financial life of the nation as a whole, it being the most important commodity entering into America's export trade.

Harding Optimistic. Governor Harding spoke optimistically of the situation. If the southern bankers would move with concert of action in boosting a spirit of optimism and of strengthening confidence by forcing liquidations, but assume attitudes of normalcy except as to encouraging over production consistent with the decreased power of cotton and the heavy carry-over that is now visible.

Secretary Hoover declared the government would co-operate through its three instruments. Other speakers followed the same line, all agreeing that decreased production was essential and that following this government co-operation, financing Europe to buy cotton was the now only necessary step to place cotton on a satisfactory basis.

To Plan Bank Syndicate. The committee named by the conference will pursue further studies of plans to create local or sectional banking syndicates, which would serve as agencies to combine the financial strength of interests in the cotton crop. Around these, it was proposed, would be erected machinery for the extension of credit of stricken European states, where long-term credit is necessary and where there is no market unless the exporter is willing to await conversion of the raw product into finished merchandise.

The discussion was frank and Governor Harding took occasion to assert that the cotton growers lacked confidence and that any relief that could come must have its origin among these interested and not in the government.

After the afternoon session, Managing Director Myers, of the finance corporation, under whose auspices the conference were held, declared that "genuine progress" had been made in the direction of a plan which ultimately would restore life to the cotton business. He warned, however, that the situation could not be remedied overnight and that only through combined action of those interested in

Wife Who Shot Husband Praying He Will Recover

MRS. ROSA ALEXANDER LEE.

Every footfall that sounded in the Tower corridor outside the cell of Rosa Alexander Lee yesterday were the footsteps of fate in her girl's mind. All day long she kept her vigil, waiting for word from the bedside of her husband, Asa S. Lee, the man she had shot the day before. She prayed for his life, not alone because she dreaded the horror of having destroyed the man she had sworn to love and honor, but because his life would mean not only that she would face a less serious charge, but also that his life would be sealed were she arraigned in court to answer for the dramatic shooting in their bedroom Sunday morning.

For the laws of Georgia provide that a husband cannot testify against a wife and Lee, himself, is the only eyewitness who could tell under what circumstances the tragedy occurred.

Connection with such financial help as the government could give in the shape of loans would better the conditions prevailing in the cotton belt.

Use of Warehouses. While the conference today did not go into details of the program, it is understood, in general to be the purpose to use the collective resources of banks in sections where cotton is tied up. The banks aiding in the financing of the exports, it was pointed out, could, with their own paper, obtain further funds from the War Finance corporation so that their activities would not be curtailed by lack of money.

Secretary Mellon suggested warehouse depositing of cotton and some other non-perishable products, on which loans might be obtained from the government as a means of enabling the producers to continue operations. He said the copper producers had resorted to that plan when they were confronted with no market for their mine output. Money borrowed on the warehouse receipts was being used, he explained, to keep the mines running in the hope that eventually a market would be available for the stored stock.

Defense of His Sister. To which, the wounded man's sister was pulled that sent the bullet through his lung. The bride's statement is that she fired in self-defense, and that statement was not contradicted by direct testimony should Lee live.

Passes Splendid Day. Reports from the home of Mrs. Charles Cook, the sister of Lee, where the shooting took place, is that Lee spent a splendid day and has excellent chances of recovery. That message brought to the bride cast a bright ray of hope into the gloom of her cell—for her attorney had told her just how important Lee's life is to her.

No one is allowed in the room in the home at 424 Woodlawn avenue except the physician in attendance and one member of the family at a time. During the day, a minister paid a brief visit to the sick room. Widely divergent stories are told by Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Cook. They only agree on the facts that led up to the marriage of the pair in November. Lee is foreman of the Betty Lou College candy factory. Rosa Alexander was employed there as a candy maker. They loved and were married, despite parental objections by the bride's mother and stepfather.

They based the objections on the difference in ages, Mrs. Lee being at least ten years her husband's junior, and on Lee's alleged reputation for alcoholic indulgence. And there's the first difference. The bride contends that she and her husband first quarreled because she attempted to keep him from spending everything he made on whiskey.

Mrs. Lee's narrative of the events leading up to the shooting tells of a trip with her husband to town Saturday night, his purchase of a pint of liquor, his drinking by him in downtown alleys, her final decision to leave him downtown, his return home intoxicated at a late hour, a wordy quarrel in which he threatened her life, her packing and dressing and a sleepless night on the floor, a renewal of the quarrel in the morning, a struggle, and her shooting in self-defense.

White Plains, N. Y., April 4.—Justice Morschauser in supreme court here today signed an order directing that payment of alimony

HOW TO CURE BABY'S COLD

First Step Is to Cleanse Intestinal Tract With "Baby Ease," the Perfected Laxative.

Baby specialists have learned from experience that the most important factor in curing babies' colds and spasmodic croup is to keep the liver active and bowels open. "Baby Ease," a perfected laxative, will quickly cleanse the intestinal tract; relieve constipation and biliousness; is safe, reliable and pleasant.

At the first sign of cold or spasmodic croup, give "Baby Ease," thus purifying the little system and breaking up the cold. "Baby Ease," a perfected laxative and corrective by baby specialists for mother's use with her children, is also the best remedy for stomach and bowel complaints of infants and children. INGROWN NAIL

Toe Nail Turns Out Itself if You Toughen Skin

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrown nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic, manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—(Adv.)

and counsel fees in the divorce proceedings brought by James A. Stillman, New York banker, against Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, was made within thirty days and that meanwhile referee hearings in the case be stayed. Mrs. Stillman will be paid $15,000 alimony for March and April in three days. The remainder of the $20,000 payments of $7,500. Counsel fees will be paid in three installments of $15,000 each, the first payment to be made three days after the order has been entered.

Counsel for both sides agreed that sealed papers in the case, including letters said to have been written to Mrs. Stillman by Fred Beauvais, Indian guide, named as co-respondent, and the alleged "confession letter" of Mrs. Stillman to her husband, should not be opened when they are filed in the Fulton county courthouse at Carmel.

Pitch on Letters.
Counsel for Stillman today began their fight against a decision of Justice Morschauser barring from the divorce proceedings any letters written by Mrs. Stillman to her husband.

These included the so-called "confession letter" Mrs. Stillman is said to have written to her husband, and letters alleged to have been written to her by Fred Beauvais, Indian guide, named as co-respondent.

The banker's attorneys in appearing here today before Justice Morschauser, also opposed an order served on them by the defense last Saturday seeking to make effective immediately the court's award of $20,000 a year alimony, with counsel fees and expenses.

Referring to the court order on alimony and counsel fees, John F. Brennan, of Yonkers, of counsel of Mrs. Stillman, said:

"We want a settlement of this order immediately whether there is an objection to it or not."

Objects to Service.
Outbridge Horsey, representing the plaintiff, then arose and objected to serving of the papers without notice last Saturday afternoon.

Saturday afternoon, he said, was considered by New York attorneys "dies non."

He objected also to the order on the ground that it did not conform to the court's award. The defense, he said, wanted to pay within three days of $25,000. Mr. Stillman, he added, was ready to pay within that time $15,000, or two months' alimony, but desired the remaining $10,000 to be spread over installments, the first not to begin before ten days.

The richest man in the world could not raise such a sum within such a short time," he said.

Attorneys for Mr. Stillman also attacked efforts by the defense to have the court stay further hearings before the referee in the case until May 17. A provision to this effect was contained in the order served Saturday and today was attacked as an attempt to "drag in by the ears" a stay of the proceedings.

Horsey then opened up on the barring of certain letters from the proceedings. Turning to Justice Morschauser, he said:

"There is nothing to warrant that ruling in your opinion or to justify it in law."

"I am going to send for the papers," said the justice. "You have the right to examine them. If you want to break the seals, I have placed on them or make an appeal, which automatically makes them public, that's your right, but it also is your responsibility."

At this point the court asked opposing counsel to confer on the alimony order.

Committees from all the great industries of the nation, Mr. Hoover has announced, are to be named to aid in the revival of business by assisting the commerce department with plans for the development of their respective industries. A committee from the American dye industry will be named, Mr. Hoover said today, to develop the results of the preliminary conference already held with representatives of the industry on the necessity for protection against German competition.

Other preliminary conferences are to be held this week, Mr. Hoover said, with other representatives of industries, including the automobile manufacturers.

VIVIANI IS TOLD U. S. PEACE PLANS

Understood Envoy Is Informed No Possibility of United States Joining League of Nations.

Washington, April 4.—The Harding administration intends to terminate the war between the United States and Germany by congressional resolution, M. Viviani, the French envoy extraordinary to this country, is understood to have been informed tonight at a dinner at the home of Senator McCormick, of Illinois.

Those at the dinner said that M. Viviani had been told frankly that it was useless to discuss the possibility of American membership in the league of nations. Most of the republican members of the senate foreign relations committee, and Col. George Harvey, of New York, prospective ambassador at the Court of St. James, were among those present.

The former premier was also informed, it was said, by senators present that the program of the administration does not contemplate entrance of the United States into the league of nations.

The French envoy, who was accompanied by Ambassador Jusserand, was said to have been informed that sentiment of republican leaders was virtually unanimous for adoption of the Knox separate peace resolution, subject only to possible amendment from its original form early in the special session of congress. M. Viviani was described as appearing "reconciled" to the situation.

At the same time the senators made it clear that the United States would take no action which could be in any way considered as "help" to Germany, especially in the matter of reparations and fulfilling other obligations involved in the peace settlement.

JUNIOR CHAMBER SUCCESS ASSURED

More Than 800 Members Have Already Been Obtained and Total of 1,500 Is Now Expected.

More than four hundred young men and women attended the meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce last night at the Chamber of Commerce town room, at which announcement was made that the membership drive is progressing way beyond the expectations of the organization committee, and that more than eight hundred members have been signed up to date.

The goal for 1,000 members will be easily reached by the middle of the week, it was stated, and those present expressed themselves as being confident of obtaining 1,500 members by Monday, April 11, which will be known as Charter Day. All persons joining the Junior Chamber up to that date and paying at least one-half year's dues, three dollars, will be charter members.

The meeting was enthusiastic, and all present expressed their interest and determination to make the organization a success. Charles N. Walker, chairman of the organization committee, opened the meeting and then presented Roy LeCraw, committee. Talks were made by Henry Robinson, S. E. Keves, Palmer Blackburn, De Sales Harrison and others, outlining the advantages that the Junior chamber offered the young women and men of Atlanta.

Mr. Walker called a meeting of all the team captains for the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock to further discuss plans for the campaign. Up to now about fifty young women have joined the Junior Chamber and women membership teams will be organized to increase this number.

TECH DRIVE GETS QUICK RESPONSE

Atlanta's Industrial Leaders Signify Their Hearty Approval of a Greater Georgia Tech.

Atlanta will not fail to render her homage to Georgia Tech in the form of the $1,500,000 quota which she is allotted in the $5,000,000 campaign to make this institution take its rank among the world's greatest technological schools. She will not fail if the indications which have followed the announcement of the campaign's opening are true, and they ring true.

For instance, the heads of scores of the city's large businesses and industries have already signified their intention of giving the bit which will be asked of them, proportioned as to their capitalization and business volume. The values of expansion of technical facilities seem obvious to the industries, the natural economic value of such a growth as is planned by the campaign has also been realized at first glimpse.

Monday, April 18, Albert S. Adams and his twenty committees will begin to work for the general city campaign, the campaign which will reach every Atlantan. And it is not only among the great business concerns and manufacturing interests that the value of Tech is realized. The salaried man knows that it is a "man-factory" and sees the opportunity for his son and younger brother. Mr. Adams is confident that the general campaign will see success within three or four days. The general city drive is to raise $500,000—the part of Atlanta's quota remaining after the special industrial and commercial list has contributed its $1,000,000. The quota asked of Atlanta is the largest ever sought in a local effort. No apology is offered for the fact, says G. F. Willis, chairman of the local executive committee, because the validity of the investment is so apparent. The subscriptions which will constitute the quota, however, are as yet in the early stages. That is, Atlanta will raise $200,000 a year for five years. An individual subscription of $5,000 will mean $1,000 a year for five years, and so on.

Thomas H. Daniel, who is chairman of the committee which will place before the special list of commercial and industrial interests the amounts which have been estimated as their fair contribution to the effort to build a greater industrial Georgia through a Greater Georgia Tech, announced that all is in readiness for the inauguration of that important phase of the drive.

Mr. Willis, the general chairman, and Mr. Adams, in charge of the city campaign, are at work on the formulation of the twenty committees, headed by capable leaders, who will handle the details of the "clean-up" drive throughout Atlanta. These teams and the names of their leaders will be announced within the next few days. Those asked to serve on the committees and as leaders are urged by the proponents of the move to accept the task and give the best of their services for the cause which they believe in. It leaves all who are chosen for the work will be eager to work.

During the campaign, there will be several surprise features. Frequent injections of "pop" will be secured from such occurrences as the monster free show which will be given at the Tech club and several of the leading vaudeville artists then in the city will appear; the participation of the "tehab" boys; and in the great parade on the morning of April 18 by the entire student body of the school.

On that morning Atlanta will be given an opportunity to see what part of men and in what quantities are being trained to coordinate their brain and brawn in an institution originally designed to meet the needs of 700 students.

G. O. P. CHAIRMEN PLANNING TO HOLD CONVENTION HERE

Plans for calling a convention of state Republican chairmen of the southern states, to be held in Atlanta soon, were announced Monday by D. K. Roberts, candidate for the office of internal revenue collector under the Republican administration, who is back from Washington.

While in Washington Mr. Roberts conferred with President Harding and party leaders, and discussed with them the plan. It is probable that a sub-committee of the national Republican party will attend the meeting for the purpose of studying the situation of the south more closely and reporting observations to the national committee. Mr. Roberts stated.

Mr. Roberts, who was formerly in the newspaper business in Atlanta, was paid a unique compliment while in Washington, in that a petition signed by Washington newspaper correspondents and representatives of the various press associations was presented to President Harding in the honor of his candidate for revenue collector. It is said that the instance was the first in the history of the White House in which such an endorsement had been given anyone.

During his stay at the national capital Mr. Robertson was a guest at a banquet given in honor of the President's secretary, George Christian.

Co-operative Bakery Will Be Established On Rochdale Plan

A co-operative bakery conducted on the Rochdale plan, in which customers instead of stockholders will receive dividends, will commence business in Atlanta as soon as a charter can be obtained, it is announced.

The Purity Co-operative society will conduct the bakery, which society has been organized by Charles Weintraub, M. Russ, Samuel Feinberg, A. Thierl, A. Sherman, Charles Zimmerman and others. It will be incorporated at $5,000, with the privilege of increasing the capital to $100,000.

A meeting of the incorporators has been called for 8 o'clock Wednesday night, when plans will be made for opening business and officers will be elected. The temporary office of the society, at 207 Capitol avenue, will be the place of the meeting.

Clean-Up of Loafers Has Lessened Crime, Says Chief Beavers

As a result of the general clean-up of loafers which was begun by Chief of Detectives James Beavers several days ago, crime in Atlanta has materially decreased, according to the chief. He stated Monday that although he cannot give any figures to show the decrease, it has been very noticeable. "The loafers about the pool rooms and other popular hangouts have thinned out considerably," said the chief. "I believe that the city will soon be rid of loafers."

WHAT A WOMAN SHOULD DO WHEN SHE IS WEAK AND NERVOUS

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN HAVE SURPRISINGLY INCREASED THEIR STRENGTH, ENERGY AND ENDURANCE IN TWO WEEKS BY THIS SIMPLE EXPERIMENT.

On account of the terrible weakness, nervousness and alarming symptoms, which are often produced by iron starvation of the blood, the sufferer frequently never suspects the real cause of her trouble, but thinks she has some other ailment. As a result of iron starvation you may suffer from headaches, dizziness, shortness of breath or heart palpitation, pains across the back, loss of memory, weak will power, melancholy or the "blues," disturbed digestion, loss of appetite, sleepless nights, night sweats and so on. In such cases do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, but eat more spinach and green vegetables and take organic iron like Nuxated iron, with them for a while and see what a difference it makes. But be sure the iron you take is organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take. Metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron, while organic iron like Nuxated iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, fruits and apples. Beware of substitutes. Look for the name "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. For sale by all druggists.—(adv.)

SOUTHERN TARIFF MEN TO PRESENT OPINIONS

Representatives of Association Before Ways and Means Committee on April 20.

By JAMES A. HOLLOMON,
Constitution Bureau,
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, April 4.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—Chairman Cordell Hull has announced that he will call the House Ways and Means Committee in special session Wednesday, April 20, to hear representatives of the Southern Tariff Association present their tariff requirements and discuss national legislation desired by the south. John H. Kirby, president of the Southern Tariff Association, who has been in Washington for several days conferring with President Harding and other administration leaders, has called a meeting of the directing heads of the fifty-seven industries affiliated with his organization to meet here for a preliminary conference at the National Hotel Monday and Tuesday, April 18 and 19.

"At this conference we will correctly determine the attitude of the south on tariff legislation and we will present our conclusion to the congress of the United States through the ways and means committee at its special session," Mr. Kirby said. "By that time we will have definite comments from the producing, consuming, political, commercial and distributing interests of the south as to the tariff requirements of our southern agricultural, live stock, manufacturing and mining industries."

Meetings in South.
A series of meetings are to be held throughout the south prior to the Washington conference for the purpose of developing southern sentiment on the tariff question. Governor Lee M. Russell, of Mississippi, who is chairman of the Mississippi division of the Southern Tariff Association, is arranging for a statewide meeting in Jackson early in April, and similar conferences will be held in Texas, Arkansas, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and other states of the south.

Tariff and other important national legislation problems affecting the south will be thoroughly considered at the meeting of the southern chamber of commerce executives to be held in Jacksonville, Fla., the middle of May, according to tentative plans mapped out here by several officials and members of the program committee of the Southern Commercial Executives' association, who have been in Washington conferring with administration leaders.

Ask Tariff Study.
Hubert Harrison, manager of the Wichita Falls, Texas, chamber of commerce, a member of the executive committee of the Southern Commercial Executives' association, has announced that he would soon issue a call to all chambers of commerce managers throughout the south, requesting that each commercial organization study the tariff question and its relations to the productive industry of their respective localities and to the south as a whole, and secure an expression from their membership as to the attitude on tariff matters.

"More than 200 commercial and agricultural organizations throughout southern states are already on record as favoring a policy of protection designed to treat all sections, industries and classes alike," Mr. Harrison said, "but we want to secure a complete and unanimous expression on this important subject from all southern agencies of organized industry, in order that we may act intelligently at our meeting in Jacksonville."

Reaction Against Tariff.
Eugene S. Shannon, of Fort Worth, Texas, and probably the most widely known chamber of commerce manager in the south, announced here today that he would attend the Jacksonville meeting and would offer a resolution favoring immediate enactment of tariff legislation to protect the cattle, sheep, vegetable oil, peanuts, grain, manufacturing, mining and other industries of the south against foreign competition.

In the meantime there is a growing feeling throughout the nation that a protective tariff, fashioned on the old Payne-Aldrich bill, will not only build a wall so high around this country that her export trade will be entirely cut off, which will mean economic bankruptcy to this country, but that, applying President Harding's own logic, that "we cannot sell where we do not buy," it will become necessary before a normalcy in trade balances can be attained, to encourage rather than discourage, through government agencies, the expansion of foreign trading along constructive, fair, "give-and-take" lines.

Washington, April 4.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—Georgians at the capital were blown off their feet today when Congressman Carl Vinson of the tenth district, calmly whispered to a group of them in front of the house office building that he would be married next Wednesday, Vinson, it must be known, is not only the lone bachelor of the Georgia delegation, but president emeritus of the congressional bachelors club, that honor have fallen upon him by reason of long service and close application to the paramount tenet of bachelor faith.

But all of this is passing like the whispering winds of winter, for Vinson will not only become a Benedict on Wednesday, but he has deliberately chosen for that eventful occasion the fourth anniversary of the American declaration of war, in significant celebration, however, of the armistice that followed so triumphantly thereafter.

The bride-to-be is Mrs. Mary Greene McGregor, of New Philadelphia, Pa., the former wife of Donald McGregor, the well-known representative of The Paris Herald in the Washington press gallery. She is a member of a prominent Quaker city family, her father having been "United States district attorney for many years."

The wedding will be celebrated at high noon in the Foundry Methodist church, Rev. Herbert F. Randolph performing the ceremony. It will be a quiet, informal affair and among the guests will be Congressman and Mrs. Edgar Keiss, of Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Stone, of Georgia; Mr. Willis Howard, of Milledgeville, Ga.; and Miss Edna L. Lytle, secretary to Congressman Vinson.

The bride and groom will spend a short honeymoon in Atlantic City, returning to Washington for the opening of congress on Monday, April 15, and after that date will be at home at 1459 N street N. W.

Dried bricks from Ninevah and Babylon are to be found in the British museum.

Every week, within the borders of London, approximately 4,000 children are born, 2,400 persons die and 2,600 begin wedded life.

A Message to Georgians and to Every Man Who Makes His Living in Georgia

GEORGIA'S SHAME

The True Story of Georgia Tech's Brave Struggle Against Insurmountable Obstacles to Offer Georgia Boys the Education Which Will Equip Them to Compete on Equal Ground With Boys of Other States

Every man who has one spark of loyalty in his heart for Georgia and Dixie, every man who lives in Georgia and wants his boys and his neighbors' boys to be equipped to fight life's battles, should know the facts about the Georgia School of Technology.

Here is an educational institution that, in spite of almost overwhelming odds, has for thirty-three years competed with the leading technology schools of this country and abroad in turning out young men who have been an honor to their professions.

While Massachusetts Institute of Technology has a plant costing $28,000,000, and costing $1,250,000 a year to maintain, Georgia Tech has been forced to exist with a plant costing 1-28th of that of M. I. T.'s, and maintenance cost is but 1-10th, yet Georgia Tech today is educating two-thirds as many boys as are attending the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

ARE YOU PROUD OF THIS?

Georgia ranks 43rd in educational matters.

It is impossible for Georgia Tech to educate enough students to fill industrial positions waiting for them. Present ratio of positions open to graduates is about ten to one.

Georgia produces over 2,000,000 bales of cotton annually, but because of the lack of trained technical men, only spins one-third of the cotton she produces.

Georgia, the largest state east of the Mississippi river, with wonderful and abundant natural resources, lacks the trained men to develop them, and as a consequence ships most of its raw products out of the state and afterwards buys them back again, paying freight and a big margin of profit.

Hundreds of products and by-products are going to waste every day in Georgia because Georgia Tech needs more money to extend the work of her laboratories and has not the room to educate more men.

It has been due to Massachusetts Institute of Technology that Massachusetts, with none of Georgia's natural resources, has up to a few years ago had MORE FACTORIES THAN ALL fourteen southern states. If we want to continue shipping all of Georgia's raw products to the north to be manufactured, instead of educating our boys to manufacture them here in Georgia, we must keep on neglecting Georgia Tech.

Georgia has twenty-four natural mineral resources. If Massachusetts had but four of them, she would double her wealth within the next ten years, for she is educating the men to do it for her at her school of technology.

Georgia Tech, poorly housed, inadequately equipped, has some two thousand students and had to TURN AWAY HUNDREDS THIS YEAR FROM HER DOORS because of lack of money. If Georgia Tech had but a $5,000,000 plant she could take care of 5,000 students yearly, each one of them a vitally important asset in building up the state of Georgia and the entire south industrially.

Even if it is strictly a matter of dollars and cents, and not a matter of pride and loyalty with you, Georgia Tech should receive your whole-hearted support in her efforts to obtain the money which means her very existence.

WHAT IS $5,000,000?

It is enough to place Georgia Tech in a position where it will be the state's greatest asset for industrial advancement and the development of the state's natural resources.

It is much less than one-half of what Georgia people spend a year for soft drinks and a fourth of what they spend for gasoline.

It is the sum which will make us proud of our school of technology in place of being ashamed of ranking as the forty-third state of the Union in educational matters.

It is the amount which will avoid the necessity of Georgia Tech turning away year after year hundreds of Georgia's boys who are seeking a technical education.

It is the amount which is to be raised throughout the entire state for Georgia Tech, $1,500,000 of which is to be raised in Atlanta. It is payable in five yearly installments, making only $300,000 a year to be paid by the people of Atlanta. Similar schools have plants valued at over five times $5,000,000.

Fellow Georgians, do you know New England manufacturers donated thirty to forty thousand dollars' worth of textile equipment to Tech's textile school, and that northerners have helped Tech out from time to time with financial assistance? We, ourselves, should make it possible for Georgia School of Technology to take its place as the SOUTH'S GREAT SCHOOL OF TECHNICAL EDUCATION. We can do it, if we will all place our shoulders to the wheel and raise $5,000,000 for "Tech." Here in Atlanta, we should do our own part by raising $1,500,000 of this amount.

If Worcester Polytechnic Institute, with 400 students, raised $4,000,000; if Rose Polytechnic Institute, with only 300 students, raised successfully $3,000,000, we can raise for Georgia Tech, with its 2,500 and more students, $1,500,000 in Atlanta and another $3,500,000 in the rest of the state.

But we have all got to get together and ACT. We must put our whole hearts into this thing which means so much to ourselves and to our boys.

WHAT ARE YOU, YOURSELF, GOING TO DO?

CONNELL FACING PEONAGE CHARGE

Prominent Pike County Farmer Goes on Trial in U. S. Court—Notable Array of Lawyers Present.

Five witnesses for the government were examined Monday before the adjournment of the United States district court in the trial of Willard Connell, prominent Pike county farmer, charged with violation of the federal peonage laws, and the case will be continued this morning at 10 o'clock.

It is charged by the government that Connell illegally swore out a warrant for Cornelius Alexander, a negro farm hand, charging him with cheating and swindling, in order that he might have the negro return to his farm to be held in peonage. The defense contends that the negro actually stole a pistol from the Connell farm and left. Connell claims that the warrant was sworn out merely for the purpose of bringing Alexander to trial. Legion in Georgia
Replaced on Feet

Voluntary Subscriptions by Officers at Macon Meet Avert Need of Closing Headquarters.

Macon, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—The Georgia department of the American Legion was financially placed on its feet again and saved from closing its headquarters doors in Atlanta by the voluntary subscriptions of officers of that organization for their posts at a meeting held at the Hotel Danmore, of about 100 department, post and unit officers and members of the legion.

The subscriptions followed a review by Basil Stockbridge, of Atlanta, of the situation of the Georgia department of the American Legion in which the state organization was pictured as in debt to the extent of about $2,500 as a result of deficits from the anti-Watson-Hardwick campaign for last fall, and the failure of many posts to pay their share of the department expenses.

Stockbridge speaks. "It is typical of the American Legion in Georgia that it be subordinated to every other interest," Basil Stockbridge declared, as he reviewed the history of the legion in this state through "its brief and stormy career." "We have come to face the financial collapse which this meeting proposes to overcome," he said.

He reviewed the anti-Watson-Hardwick campaign of the Georgia department, of the reaction after the world war in which repudiation of war policies and the appointment of that "our men going around to help in the war risk work meet with a perfect frost by a' but one or two Georgia posts."

after Alexander returned to the farm his body was found in Flint river.

Notable Array of Counsel. A notable array of counsel appeared in the case. Reuben Arnold of Atlanta; Judge J. J. Flynn and Lloyd Cleveland, of Griffin, are representing Connell, while the government's case is being handled by District Attorney Hooper Alexander.

The Connell farm is located in Pike county, just one mile distant from that of Franklin Bluff, the place where recently served 18 months in the federal penitentiary for peonage.

When the case was called, continuance was asked by the defense, on the ground that Sheriff W. W. Marsh, of Pike county, was absent, and that Oliver Slaton, a negro, was also absent. The district attorney objected to a continuance on the ground that the Slaton negro had also been subpoenaed by the government and that he did not believe the negro would be available for either side. Judge Flynn ridiculed the statement of the district attorney that he had information that Slaton had been warned by night riders not to appear in the case.

The first witness called was Ollie Alexander, wife of the alleged peon, who told of her husband leaving the plantation, the warrant subsequently sworn out for him, his return and his mysterious death. Details of the case were briefly testified to by Cap Churn, a negro farm hand, and Phillip Moore, another negro. Testimony was also given by department of justice men who had investigated the case.

Mr. Alexander said that he believed the case would consume a week in trial, and also said that sensational evidence would be brought out in the subsequent hearings. The defense counsel stated that the case would be finished within three days. The hearing will resume Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Just at the juncture Slaton himself strode into the courtroom, causing hearty laughter from the counsel for defense. The district attorney said he was ready to proceed with the trial.

LEGION IN GEORGIA REPLACED ON FEET

Voluntary Subscriptions by Officers at Macon Meet Avert Need of Closing Headquarters.

Macon, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—The Georgia department of the American Legion was financially placed on its feet again and saved from closing its headquarters doors in Atlanta by the voluntary subscriptions of officers of that organization for their posts at a meeting held at the Hotel Danmore, of about 100 department, post and unit officers and members of the legion.

The subscriptions followed a review by Basil Stockbridge, of Atlanta, of the situation of the Georgia department of the American Legion in which the state organization was pictured as in debt to the extent of about $2,500 as a result of deficits from the anti-Watson-Hardwick campaign for last fall, and the failure of many posts to pay their share of the department expenses.

Stockbridge speaks. "It is typical of the American Legion in Georgia that it be subordinated to every other interest," Basil Stockbridge declared, as he reviewed the history of the legion in this state through "its brief and stormy career." "We have come to face the financial collapse which this meeting proposes to overcome," he said.

He reviewed the anti-Watson-Hardwick campaign of the Georgia department, of the reaction after the world war in which repudiation of war policies and the appointment of that "our men going around to help in the war risk work meet with a perfect frost by a' but one or two Georgia posts."

A. L. Henson, department commander, stated that he had contributed $100 from his pocket only two days before to prevent the doors of the headquarters from being closed.

Upon being confronted with this situation members leaped to their feet and subscribed for their posts sums aggregating about $1,600 to pay the immediate obligations.

Proration of Expense. Motion of R. D. Roddenberry, Jr., of Moultrie, was passed providing that the indebtedness, from the anti-Watson-Hardwick campaign and the salary of the officials, until the convention at Columbus this summer, be prorated among the members of the posts, estimating each post's share by its membership last year.

The action of the convention followed a resolution of R. B. Troutman, of Moultrie, which resolved into a committee as a whole to consider ways and means. Representatives from a number of posts spoke, presenting many of the problems which, they stated, confront the legion at this time.

Posts Subscribing. The posts whose representatives subscribed to the fund to reduce the state department of its present financial embarrassment were: Joseph N. Neel, Jr., Post No. 360, Macon, for $100 in dues and $20 in subscriptions, by July 1; Atlanta Post, No. 1, $250 before April 15, and $500 more before the annual convention this summer; Thomas S. Tobay post, Moultrie, $15; Rose post, $50; Valdosta post, $50; Marietta post, Black Jack, $50; Columbus post, $100, and $100 later; Waycross post, $50; Americus post, $50; Madison post, $50; post 27, $50; post 15, $25; post 24, $50.

Joseph N. Neel, Sr., speaks. Joseph N. Neel, Sr., father of Joseph N. Neel, Jr., for whom the Macon post was named, was presented to the meeting and said a few words to the legionaries. He was received with a rising salute.

J. A. Bankston, at the afternoon session, presented a financial report of the Georgia department, showing that the department was not only without funds but in debt. A general review of the situation was presented by J. G. C. Bloodworth, department adjutant.

"What I have to reveal is pathetic," Mr. Bloodworth stated, "and in instance after instance of complete or partial apathy on the part of post officers and members, the requests and calls of himself for their co-operation in various ways."

National Vice Commander. E. Jackson Winslett, national vice commander, of Dadeville, Ala., addressed the meeting upon the purpose, ideals and aid of the organization. He urged that all at the meeting return to their homes and carry out the requests of the legion in which they are located, he stated.

The noon luncheon served in the Gold room of the hotel Danmore, and attended by about 100 visitors and local legionnaires, was featured by solos and mass singing.

Outside Control Denied. A general survey of the organization and the problems of the American Legion was presented by Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the legion. He denied the charges that the organization is controlled by Wall street, and denied that it is controlled by any political party. He urged that the members rally to the support of their organization at once to counteract the reaction of the present time.

"You will get out of the legion what you put in it," he declared. The necessity for the organization of women's auxiliaries at all posts was the one point which he urged most emphatically. The possibilities of each post are based entirely upon their ability to serve the communities in which they are located, he stated.

The noon luncheon served in the Gold room of the hotel Danmore, and attended by about 100 visitors and local legionnaires, was featured by solos and mass singing.

Outside Control Denied. A general survey of the organization and the problems of the American Legion was presented by Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the legion. He denied the charges that the organization is controlled by Wall street, and denied that it is controlled by any political party. He urged that the members rally to the support of their organization at once to counteract the reaction of the present time.

THE TECH DRIVE.

Measured by its possible effect upon the industrial development of the state, the drive for a $5,000,000 fund with which to carry out a three-year building and expansion program for Tech is, as George F. Willis, general executive committee chairman, expressed it, "the greatest campaign the city of Atlanta or the state of Georgia has ever undertaken."

The Georgia School of Technology has made a remarkable record.

From a meager beginning only a few years ago it has attained a scholarship rating as one of the leading technological training institutions in the country.

It has achieved that standing solely upon merit, and by reason of the exceptional loyalty and determination which has always characterized both faculty and student body; and also by reason of a splendid and continuous manifestation of appreciation and of gratitude on the part of the general public.

It has done this, despite the fact that the state government, when appropriating money for its support, has never dealt with it as generously as its service to the state has merited.

The truth is, the state has never supplied Tech with funds sufficient to provide it with more than means necessary for mere subsistence; and each year, after defraying its actual running expenses, it has had virtually nothing for expansion.

The result has been that Tech has subsisted upon "short rations" and been starved to a point where it must either take on new life, erect new buildings and enlarge its capacity and scope in all departments, or else start back-ward!

Nothing in this world can stand still. Tech is no exception, and, because of its splendid plan of operations and its proven excellence as an educator and uplifter of the rank and file of the state's young men, it has gained a reputation that it is impossible for it to maintain without more money than the state is legally enabled to appropriate out of current public revenues.

Unless something is done to enable this great institution to adequately meet the constantly increasing demands that are being made upon it by the people, not only of this state, but of the south, the splendid spirit that has made Tech what it is, is bound to stagnate; and when that happens, the usefulness of Tech will be seriously impaired.

The movement to recruit this "Greater Tech" expansion fund is the expression of the determination of the Tech alumni, of the industrial interests of Georgia, and of Georgians generally who are acquainted with the situation and who mean to Georgia, that the "Tech spirit" shall not be jeopardized by any lack of funds in that shall be rewarded in a way that will practically revolutionize the institution and put it on a firmer and broader basis of service than could possibly attain if left dependent wholly upon state government appropriations!

To carry out the comprehensive development plan that has been formulated for Tech it will be necessary that a fund of $5,000,000 be guaranteed aside and apart from annual state appropriations for maintenance—of which Atlanta's quota is $1,500,000.

And, as Chairman Willis said, the idea that either Georgia or Atlanta will fall in this undertaking is unthinkable!

The intensive campaign opened auspiciously yesterday morning with the "Greater Tech Industrial tour" of the state. Let us hope that the state will make adequate response.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Memorial Day is a day made sacred in the memories of the sixties.

The Atlanta Ladies' Memorial association was the first to organize in response to the earnest and patriotic appeal of the women of Columbus, Ga., to all Southern women to honor the Confederate dead.

The Memorial association was born April 26, 1866.

The Atlanta Memorial association has kept the camp fires of love and sacred memories in the hearts of the people for twenty years before the Confederate Veterans organized, and twenty-five years before the Daughters of the Confederacy came into being. The Sons of the Confederacy followed.

Possibly, this is the Mother organization of all club work, being as it has been both patriotic and civic, in building monuments, marking graves and taking care of cemetery grounds.

In their splendid work, the Memorial women do not call on the citizens for any material aid, being financially in position to pay all expenses on Memorial Day.

The work of this organization is given entirely to the beautifying of Confederate cemeteries, and doing other memorial work for the Confederate dead.

April 26th is a day upon which every man, woman and child in Atlanta should pay honor to the Confederate dead.

GETTING THINGS DONE.

It is the spring season for getting things done.

That is what spring accomplishes when sun and soil combine to start the seed on the harvest-way. She is getting things done every minute of the bright days—measuring up to every opportunity to make the gardens and the great world-supplying fields fine and fruitful.

And that is what the real community helpers are doing everywhere, in field and town; and there's a hearty, go-ahead spirit in the work that means good times all around!

"The spring sap's on the rise," says a home-town philosopher, "and the spirit that makes a man feel like jumping up and cracking his heels together twice before they hit the ground again, would make him a live wire in a business way!"

It's the spring help and hustle-time and the big live-wire opportunity for all; for town and farmer alike, it's the best of times for getting things done.

"The cost of living," says The Cincinnati Enquirer, "is still burdensome to multitudes, and here is where help is needed," and where even a small garden can help.

"It all depends," says The Enquirer, "on the man with the hoe—enough of him, working at odd times during the next few weeks, with slight attention during the summer, can accomplish more for the general material welfare than can be accomplished through the operation of treaties and tariffs."

"No doubt about it at all! Let the available unused plots of ground in the nation be utilized for garden purposes; let every citizen tend his little patch—rich man, poor man, beggar man—with the school children doing their bit, as was done during the war, and let the most vexing internal domestic problems will be settled."

Get the spring working-spirit and help in every way to make things hum!

It will make optimists of the grouchy ones, and keep them on the bright side.

It's the way to get things done.

Only seventy copies of William Hohenzollern's book on the war were printed. Burning them will give him a chance to advertise—"First edition consumed!"

It was natural for President Harding to inspect the white house cellar, for even the cellar of a new administration should be "there with the goods."

Of a recent trial The Philadelphia Record says: "The women jurors did not hang the jury, or the prisoner."

The moonshine stuff is bad enough, but you read of home-brew with the high kick that goes through the roof.

Just From Georgia

By FRANK L. STANTON.

A Rising Song.
On the Twentieth Century Limited, April 4.—The train boys do not carry glass revolvers filled with colored candy. It is something a young generation should see. It teaches them self-sacrifice. In my day, every boy or girl train passenger wanted one, but I never knew a parent to invest.

There is a great uplift among train boys, too. They used to be called "butchers," and they seemed to me youthful mind to represent all that was worldly and wicked. Now they call them "train boys." And they carry the Atlantic Monthly on top instead of the Police Gazette.

Once, traveling from Gallipolis to Cincinnati, Ohio, a train boy whispered something mysterious in my ear and slipped me a sealed package. It had come straight from Georgia and was full of naughty pictures. His mother had opened it. I had left the train. I gave him 50 cents, and that night my hotel room, with all the curtains lowered, opened it. It was a back edition of Hostetter's Almanic.

Out in the baggage car where my dog seems to have taken to the globe trotting life with easy nonchalance I have made a very good friend. He is the baggage-master and a fellow of yielding confidence. I know the year he was converted and he is now a very good boy. I thought all baggage men ripped out an oath every time they hurried into the baggage car. I saw a prosperous plumber in Dubuque. He also warned us that New York was not a safe place for a "dinkin' them cock-tails," he said as one inured to the ways of the world. He said, "If you're playin' horse races and runnin' after movin' picture actresses—money or reputation." My only hope is that I will heed his terrible warning that he will learn the danger.

Professor at $12 a Year.
Book Notes, of The Yale University Press, says that the publishers of the new volume, "Studies in Honor of Maurice Bloomfield," recently sent notices to scholars in all parts of the world. One professor in Budapest answered as follows:

"I do not allow myself the pleasure of procuring this interesting and precious volume, whose price of $12 means in our money 1,500-2,000 crowns, that is to say, just half of my annual salary."

The publishers lost no time in forwarding a complimentary copy of the work to the professor.

The Practical Side.

I. One garden growin' With the roses sweet When you hear the heart Of the morning beat, And his sweetest's face Love comes to meet Bright in the springtime weather.

II. And another garden Of the plow and hoe, Where the fresh soil glimmers And the good things grow; For love, though a dreamer, Must be fed, you know, In the hungry springtime weather!

The Farmer's Side-Line.
(From The Springfield News.)
The farmers are all pretty well up with their work, and have been catching some nice channel cat. They put their hooks out as they go to the field and find fish on them as they return from work.

"The Havana editor that killed a man who criticized one of his editorials was a wee bit hasty," says The Thomsville Times-Enterprise.

The Promise.
Old man Winter Grabbed his grip and fled; "Goodbye, Springtime," Was the word he said: "If you'll follow the spring, There'll be tables spread, For a woman's in the kitchen That'll bake the bread."

We Should Advertise.
The Albany Herald says: "This talk about the independence of women has commenced to frighten us a little. It may be all right for them to wear the pants, but if they expect us to wear the skirts, they have better wear the pants, too. They've got to get a little longer and that at least a yard of rick-rack be added."

Advice From Billville.
Fisherman a-livin' and sellin' To the river, soon an' late, Dig in the garden. Et you want to get the bait, There's the bait that catches—No matter what is said—Big slice of comfort In a few dollars' daily bread.

Good News For Sons of Rest.
The Albany Herald says: "The fellow who knows where the fish are biting can always borrow a quarter."

HEALTH TALKS

ARE RAW ONIONS GOOD TO EAT?

Besides wearing bags of noxious stuff such as snuff, tobacco or opium, one's chest, almost any ignorant, superstitious old granny will assure you, is a simple matter to keep off the germ of raw onions. There is usually a grain of truth underlying these ridiculous notions. The uneducated, just enough of them to find a huge edifice of superstition. When a man of the uneducated, just enough of them to find a huge edifice of superstition. When a man of the uneducated, just enough of them to find a huge edifice of superstition.

The cotton marketing movement in Georgia seems to be gathering momentum all the time and it is hoped that the cotton grower will be able to get a fair price for his cotton at the April 12 convention of cotton growers in Atlanta.

Editorial Constitution: Out here in the second year of the war, interested in the righteous outcome of the present warfare against criminals and their protectors.

To a mere onlooker one unacquainted with the solicitor or any of his opponents, it is not apparent that the truth has already been brought to light. But that is not enough. We want to see the truth prevail.

This is a significant contest. To those with whom love of right is a real passion, the day is tense with decision.

When bad men or weak men are let to slip in office, the good and strong must pay. While servants sleep, enemies are ever sowing seeds of mischief. They will pay in labor and in pain for their untimely slumber.

And even now, if our noble citizenry do not rise to active interest in the cause of the oppressed, it means the crack of our moral doom. Physically, we may yet live on, but our hearts and souls are a city of character we shall have no standing.

It may be that under Providence we need just such a rude awakening. And who will be heard to say we have not been awakened? Happy is that city that condemns not itself in that which it allows.

I have often wondered who selected the names for the Pullman cars. I have pictured a poet somewhere far from the mad rush of civilization. Going to dinner tonight I swayed through Cardenas. Sequoyah, Caspades, El Ortiz, and landed in a sweet old lady's lap in Alvarado. With me I stepped through Escalante and to food. The Pullman stewards look more like expert accountants.

There is an actress on our train. I know it, because I saw her shaggy white dog, pink beribboned, in the baggage car. But I'm going to remember the advice of the baggage-master and be discreet.

There is no room for me in our drawing room. There are flowers, candy, novels, magazines and two baskets of fruit. All of them were addressed to my wife. I tried to slip my own cards in several of them and destroy the ones that were there, but my husband and I are there, and he has about as much privacy as Irvin Cobb's celebrated gold fish.

I'm sure I would land in it feet foremost. I just don't know. I'm sure I would land in it feet foremost. I just don't know.

Good Advice From Farmer Tate, of Elbert

Editor Constitution: I have read your editorial "Getting Back Home" with a great deal of interest.

Life on the farm ought to be made attractive enough to overcome the dazzle and glamour of the city light, with over-driven nerves; and inviting enough to appeal to youth to leave the city and go to the country. In the hungry springtime weather!

Mr. Tate's work will be along special lines of organizing co-operative marketing associations in various counties. He is a graduate of the state for the disposal, through the aid of the state market bureau, of the products of the various associations.

These associations were authorized by the legislature, and are now in operation. They are to be organized in each county, and will be under the supervision of the state market bureau.

ORDER IS REVOKED

Walter R. Brown Given Right to Intervene and Contest Will Be Heard on April 15.

A contest over the validation of the $8,850,000 municipal bond issue approved by the citizens March 8 in a special election, has been set for hearing April 15, in the superior court. In the same order signed by Judge George L. Bell Monday morning, allowing Walter R. Brown, attorney, to file an intervention, the order of March 15, under which the bond issue was validated, was revoked.

The court overruled the demurrer of the city of Atlanta, in which the latter contended that Mr. Brown had no right to intervene. Judge Bell allowed the intervention on the grounds that the taxpayers had not been given sufficient notice of the proceedings to validate.

The city of Atlanta is represented by City Attorney James L. Mayson and Jesse M. Wood, while Mr. Brown is represented by Attorneys R. B. Blackburn and Arthur G. Powell.

No Right to Waive Service.
In contesting the validity of the proceedings, a demurrer was filed by Mr. Brown, setting out that the city had no right to waive service and process of the petition to validate filed by the state, as he contended, Attorneys Mayson and Wood and

Mr. Brown also contends that the bond election was ordered without legal authority by the city; that the registration for the election was illegal, and that the method of ascertaining the registered vote was not valid in the petition to validate, and that the petition did not show how the vote was tabulated, consolidated or declared.

The validation of the bonds was set for hearing Saturday, March 26. Judge Bell signed the order of validation, holding it regular and legal. Mr. Brown reached the courthouse to file an intervention a few minutes after the order had been signed. Judge Bell then cited the city attorney to show cause why Mr. Brown should not be permitted to intervene, and why the original order should not be revoked.

The hearing on this order started last week and was concluded Monday morning. The court decided that sufficient cause had not been shown for the revocation of the order, and that the bonds were to be validated.

Mr. Brown reached the courthouse to file an intervention a few minutes after the order had been signed. Judge Bell then cited the city attorney to show cause why Mr. Brown should not be permitted to intervene, and why the original order should not be revoked.

The hearing on this order started last week and was concluded Monday morning. The court decided that sufficient cause had not been shown for the revocation of the order, and that the bonds were to be validated.

Greek Report Admits Halt in the Eski-Shehr Fight, But Denies Enemy Pursuit.

Constantinople, April 4.—The Greek official communication of April 3, admits that operations on the Eski-Shehr front have been halted, but declares that the enemy is not pursuing.

The Turkish communiqué of the same date says: "Adabasir has been recaptured; the Greeks retreated to Ismid, Turkish cavalry pursuing. We destroyed two divisions, taking thousands of prisoners and flags. The Greeks burned Buzyuk."

It is reported that the Turks have recaptured Afium-Karahissar and also a Greek division there.

GREEK PRINCE REPORTED SLAIN. London, April 4.—Prince Andreas of Greece, brother of King Constantine, has died from wounds received in fighting near Bursa, says a Constantinople dispatch to the Evening News, quoting a Turkish announcement that the Greek prince was killed in command of the Greek attack against the Turkish nationalists on the Bursa front, has been killed in action.

Prince Andreas of Greece was the third son of the late King George. He was born in Athens on January 20, 1882, and served in the Greek army during the Balkan war of 1912.

Following the flight of King Constantine from Greece in 1917, it was reported he aspired to the throne, but this move was reported to have been blocked by M. Venizelos, then premier of Greece. Following the return to Athens of King Constantine, Prince Andreas was appointed a general in the Greek army, and late last month was said to be in command of a division at front.

HOPE FOR SETTLEMENT ON WAR REPARATIONS

clated powers would waive the general mortgage on German assets created by the treaty of Versailles. In this connection the German government says it "would not be unwilling to assume the obligation of the interest and the amortization of the foreign debts of the allied and associated powers, within the limit of her capacity."

Invites Expert Probe. Germany invites the examination "by unbiased experts of its own ability to pay," and says the experts should meet any proposal which appears feasible "for the solution of the economic and financial problems of Europe."

The American reply makes no reference either to the proposed consolidation of allied debts as a German obligation or the suggestion for the determination by unbiased experts of the ability of Germany to pay.

Another consideration with regard to reparations presented by Germany is that of the rehabilitation of devastated regions. The German government says it stands ready to offer to France good offices and resources in whatever form is acceptable. It asserts that for the immediate rehabilitation of the devastated regions it has "repeatedly proffered labor, technical advice and material assistance," but that these offers have not been accepted.

Belittles French Concern. Germany declares that there exists in France only a limited degree of concern for the rehabilitation of the devastated regions, because advanced indemnities have been given to former occupants of the soil who have settled in other parts of France and the work of clearing the war areas "has been undertaken by influential groups of promoters who are making no effort to improve the performance of their contracts."

The German communication is the form of a memorandum of Dr. Walter Simons, minister for foreign affairs, delivered to the American high commissioner, Loring Drexel, at Berlin, who has transmitted it to the American government for some time. The American reply is officially termed a "statement," sent to Commissioner Drexel for communication to Dr. Simons. It is dated March 29.

GERMANS APPROVE AMERICAN REPLY.

Berlin, April 4.—The German note

German Note to U. S. On War Reparations And American Reply

Washington, D. C., April 4.—The American memorandum sent by Secretary of State Hughes in reply to the unofficial German communication, dated March 29, is as follows:

"The American government is pleased to note in the informal memorandum of Dr. Simons the unequivocal expression on the part of the German government of its desire to afford reparations to the limit of German ability to pay. This government stands with the governments of the allies in holding Germany responsible for the war and, therefore, morally bound to make reparation so far as may be possible."

"The recognition of this obligation, implied in the memorandum of Dr. Simons, seems to the government of the United States the only sound basis on which can be built a firm and just peace under which the various nations of Europe can achieve once more economic independence and stability. This government believes that the recognition of this obligation is the only basis on which can be built a firm and just peace under which the various nations of Europe can achieve once more economic independence and stability. This government believes that the recognition of this obligation is the only basis on which can be built a firm and just peace under which the various nations of Europe can achieve once more economic independence and stability."

German Memorandum. Following is a paraphrase prepared by the state department, of the memorandum given to Mr. Drexel by Dr. Simons:

"It is the earnest desire of the government of Germany to reach an accord with the governments of the allied associated powers, and it is sincere in its purpose to meet their requirements as far as possible. That an agreement was not reached on the question of reparations is a matter of extreme regret to the German government. In their efforts to reach an agreement, the delegations from Germany have gone beyond the limit considered possible for Germany. In the judgment of an overwhelming majority of her economic experts, Germany is reluctant to recognize her obligation to make reparations. This is not correct."

Ready to Pay. "It is entirely clear, not only to the government of Germany, but to the German people, also, that Germany must make reparation to the limit of her ability to pay. This realization on the part of Germany will not be achieved in any other way than changes which may take place in the internal politics of the country. Every German citizen, particularly the workmen of Germany, are imbued with the determination to do all that lies in their power to help in reconstructing the regions which have been devastated. Fundamental to this decision is the sober conviction on the part of the German people that an early removal of all traces of the devastation caused in France is to the best interest of Germany. It is the consensus of opinion, also, that the proposals made by Germany in regard to reparation must be considered fully the financial necessities of the allied and associated governments and particularly of France."

"In view of the foregoing, two considerations in regard to reparations present themselves both of which are of importance. These considerations are, first, the matter of rehabilitation of the devastated regions and, second, the matter of an actual sum of cash money, in foreign exchange of important proportions."

Have Offered Help. "In addressing ourselves to the first consideration, namely, the rehabilitation of the devastated regions, certain facts sent by Dr. Simons, the foreign minister, discussing reparations and suggesting that Germany is willing to assume her debts to the allies, and the reply of the American secretary of state, Charles E. Hughes, delivered to the German foreign office on March 21 by the American high commissioner, Loring Drexel, were published tonight by the government.

While the note from Secretary Hughes is brief the German officials interpret it as friendly in spirit, and the mere fact that the United States answered at all is looked upon as a hopeful sign that the American government may exert its good offices in solving the reparations problem.

Dr. Simons is still in Switzerland on vacation, consequently a further communication to the United are at once apparent. For four years 10 of the 86 departments of France served as the theater of the war and sustained the severest blows of the conflict. In these ten departments a number of cities, towns and villages, are either partly or entirely destroyed, and wide stretches of fertile lands have been laid waste. Little has been accomplished towards the rebuilding of homes, the reoccupation and the reactivation of the land. In the two years that have elapsed since the ending of the war for the immediate rehabilitation of these devastated regions, Germany has repeatedly proffered labor, technical advice and material assistance. These offers have not been accepted, nor have they even reached the point of diplomatic exchange. The reason is not far to seek.

"Peculiar though it may seem, there exists in France a limited degree of concern for the rehabilitation of the devastated regions. Advanced indemnities have been given to the former occupants of the soil, and the German government has removed to other parts of the country and taken up their abode. The German government has made no effort to exonerate the laborers in the abandoned war materials and the cleaning up of the war area. The German government has made no effort to exonerate the laborers in the abandoned war materials and the cleaning up of the war area. The German government has made no effort to exonerate the laborers in the abandoned war materials and the cleaning up of the war area."

Plan New Offer. "The German government does not desire to see the situation of the allied associated powers, in accordance with this purpose, it intends to submit proposals on this subject to the government of France, the details of which will be discussed with the laborers of Germany. The German government is ready to offer the government of France good offices and resources in whatever form is acceptable."

In respect of the second consideration, namely, the actual sum of cash money, in foreign exchange of important proportions, it is obvious that Germany can fulfill this obligation only through large increases in the volume of her exports. The memorandum prepared by the economic experts of Germany for use at the conference at London demonstrated how large this increase in Germany's exports necessarily would be if great sums of money were thereby to be obtained, and the menace this great increase would imply to the economic life of their countries. Conceding even this, it further requires that the sum in cash required could not be immediately realized."

Other Proposals. have been advanced at various times, among them the proposal that Germany should participate in the returns from German industry, either through taking shares of the capital stock of German companies or by other means of sharing of profits. Such a proposal would produce only proceeds in paper marks, valueless to foreign creditors. Indeed the allied and associated governments themselves neglected these proposals, in the treaty of Versailles, by taking for themselves a first mortgage on the total wealth and all sources of income of the German component states. In addition to this, the allied and associated governments, in the deliberations at Paris, served for themselves the decision as to what opportunity, strengthened the position of the enemy, which was to the extent that it weakened Germany's."

It is not felt here that the visit of Rene Viviani to the United States is responsible for the presentation of the American communication to Berlin. It is felt, however, that the visit of what may have prompted it, the satisfaction in British circles is complete. One of the most prominent treasury officials, who is advisor to Premier Lloyd George on financial matters, has said: "The communication from Secretary Hughes is of the greatest significance."

It has been reiterated by the allied and associated governments that the situation of Germany is a matter of concern to many of the allied and associated governments, due to the fact that Germany has no foreign debts. Germany would not let the allied and associated governments assume the obligation of the interest and the amortization of the foreign debts of the allied and associated powers, within the limit of her capacity, should this measure be adopted to give, with solemnity, the allied and associated governments and their creditors."

Wants Assume Debts. "It has been reiterated by the allied and associated governments that the situation of Germany is a matter of concern to many of the allied and associated governments, due to the fact that Germany has no foreign debts. Germany would not let the allied and associated governments assume the obligation of the interest and the amortization of the foreign debts of the allied and associated powers, within the limit of her capacity, should this measure be adopted to give, with solemnity, the allied and associated governments and their creditors."

General Assurances. Mr. Conner stated that he has in his possession a letter from the law firm of Saussey & Saussey, attorneys for the company, in which the following paragraph appears: "We were not consulted as to this advertisement (referring to the advertisement in The Savannah Daily) and will immediately advise the Savannah Daily and Oil company to cease any effort to dispose of its securities until they have fixed themselves right with your office."

Letter From Conner. Mr. Conner's letter to Solicitor-General Hartridge, alluding to another case in question between them, and then treating on the Savannah company case, says: "Evidently our securities law has been violated in this case and the last paragraph of Section 18 of the act makes it the duty of the solicitor-general of the proper county to prosecute on information furnished in this office."

"That F. J. Douglas has violated the acts seems to be evident from the charges made, both by Mr. Hill and the company which employed him. It is alleged in this correspondence that he was also working for the Savannah Oil and Gas company, of which Mr. Murray Stewart is a director. This company has obtained a license from the Georgia securities commission to employ agents to offer its stock

if any, Germany may in any instance be given to obtain credit abroad, because England and France are themselves in debt beyond their limit and the granting of a credit to Germany by a neutral power is blocked by the general mortgage.

"An international loan in favor of which the allied and associated governments would waive their general mortgage constitutes the only solution of the problem. The government of Germany is prepared to offer the necessary securities for the safety of such a loan. It is the opinion of the German government that if the loans were properly organized and offered, and if those who have evaded taxation be granted a general amnesty, the large sums of German capital which have secretly withdrawn from Germany could be drawn in for the loan and thereby become available for the reparations."

Wants Assume Debts. "It has been reiterated by the allied and associated governments that the situation of Germany is a matter of concern to many of the allied and associated governments, due to the fact that Germany has no foreign debts. Germany would not let the allied and associated governments assume the obligation of the interest and the amortization of the foreign debts of the allied and associated powers, within the limit of her capacity, should this measure be adopted to give, with solemnity, the allied and associated governments and their creditors."

It is alleged in this correspondence that he was also working for the Savannah Oil and Gas company, of which Mr. Murray Stewart is a director. This company has obtained a license from the Georgia securities commission to employ agents to offer its stock for sale in this state. If they have employed agents and offered their securities for sale, they have done so in violation of the law and your major and each every one of the other officers and directors of this company are subject to indictment by your grand jury. Some time last November, I had my attention called to a page advertisement in The Savannah Daily of this company. I immediately notified their attorneys and they admitted that this was inserted in violation of the law. I did not know at that time that they were taken action sooner.

"The copies of the letters which I am inclosing you will give you information as to one of the agents they were alleged to have employed and as to his standing. "I would like to hear from you further in this matter and any assistance I can give you towards enforcing the law will be cheerfully furnished."

"Bliss Sky" Provisions. The recently enacted law on the operations of securities of concerns in this state, as supplied by Mr. Conner, provides: "In addition to the liability now imposed by law, any person, company, association, partnership, or corporation, who, by written or printed letter, circular, prospectus, statement, advertisement or document of any kind, shall offer, sell, or dispose of securities, or receive the profit accruing from the sale of securities, or advertise to sell securities, or in any manner be liable to any person, who on the faith of such letter, circular, prospectus, statement, advertisement or document, acquires such security, for the loss or damage sustained by him by reason of any untrue statement contained therein, unless such person, company, association, partnership or corporation shall establish that he has no knowledge or notice of the publication of such advertisement prior to its transmission, or that he had just and reasonable grounds to believe the statement thereof to be true.

Whenever any corporation shall be so liable, the directors thereof shall also be liable, under the limitations jointly and severally. Any such director, upon the payment of a judgment so obtained against him, shall be subrogated to the rights of the plaintiff against such corporation and shall have the right of contribution for the payment of such judgment under like limitations against any of his fellow directors. Lack of reasonable diligence to ascertain the facts of such publications or the falsity of any statement therein contained, shall be deemed to be knowledge of such publication and of the falsity of any untrue statement thereof.

Any action based upon the liability hereby imposed, shall be brought within two (2) years after the acquisition of the security by any person so damaged or after payment of the judgment for which contribution is sought.

"The mere act of advertising securities without license from this office is a violation of the law," declared Examiner Conner. "My letter puts the matter of prosecution in the case squarely up to Solicitor-General Hartridge, and, of course, any person desiring to bring civil suit to recover damages is at liberty to do so under the law. Further than this, I do not wish to make any statement with reference to the case."

ENGLAND MAY USE TROOPS IN STRIKE

Most Serious Industrial Crisis of Year in Sight. Triple Alliance Debates Walkout.

London, April 4.—The signs tonight point to the dispute between the coal miners and the government drifting in the direction of the most serious industrial crisis in recent years. There are rumors that the government has decided upon certain military steps, which are likely still further to inflame the miners, while further emergency regulations will be issued in accordance with orders in council giving the various governmental departments almost unlimited powers to take possession of mines, lands, buildings, works, gas, electric and water supplies, horses, food and forage, and to requisition all kinds of transport, including trams, and light railways, to close ports or harbors, control shipping and cargoes, fix prices of coal and prohibit or regulate the sale and supply of motor spirit.

Much may depend upon the attitude of the government, as revealed by the debate in the house of commons tomorrow, and Wednesday, when the triple alliance is expected to make its move, either striking in support of the miners. The railway men strongly favor a strike on the ground that when the railways are taken out of government control, a similar situation may arise and, unless they support the miners now, they cannot expect the miners' support, should they need it at that time.

The anti-governmental press openly accuses Premier Lloyd-George of trying to maneuver the labor party into a false position, whereby he could appeal to the country against the labor policy of "direct action and bolshevism."

These papers appeal to the labor leaders, especially the miners, to abandon the extreme policy of breaking the mines by flooding and refusing all discussion of the miners' proposals. By their present attitude, the newspapers say, they are only playing into the premier's hands.

Premier Seeking Strike Solution.

The British government is most anxious to probe every suggestion in order to see if a solution of the coal strike might be found, the prime minister, Mr. Lloyd-George, told the house of commons today in answer to a question concerning the coal crisis.

The prime minister declared he was fully alive to the importance of giving every assistance possible and said that he hoped within 24 hours the commons would have an opportunity to discuss the question fully. This was the only information growing out of the early session of the house today, although a debate on the coal strike had been expected.

Meanwhile the labor leaders were meeting formally to discuss whether the other labor organizations should throw in their lot with the miners and force the issue.

The press still is clinging to the hope that peace negotiations will be instituted in time to prevent a general stoppage and solve the miners' dispute.

To Enlist Support Of American Labor.

New York, April 4.—John L. Jones, British labor leader, declared in a statement issued here today, that he intended to enlist support of American workers in efforts of striking British miners to "nationalize the mines, placing them under the direct control of the miners."

Jones, who is a representative of the triple alliance of Great Britain, which comprises the combined union organizations of miners, railwaymen and transport workers, declared he had information that British railwaymen and transport workers would join the miners in their strike within 48 hours.

"The labor situation in England today," he asserted, "does not involve any question of hours or wages, but solely a battle to nationalize the mines."

He said propaganda would be spread in this country urging American miners and transport workers to aid in boycotting British shipping here.

New York Yanks and Brooklyn Dodgers Appear at Ponce Park With All-Star Casts Billed

(Editor's Note: Attention is called to the remarkable headline above. It is positively the only one written of the New York Yanks in the last year in which the word "Babe" does not appear.)

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF.
At one minute after midnight, Wilbert Robinson placed his "massive" form in a lower berth of a Pullman at Birmingham, Ala., there by furnishing sufficient ballast for that venue to counterbalance the sagging of the coach ahead, caused by the sleeping corporal being of the blood sweating beneath of baseball, Babe Ruth. Both Messrs. Robinson and Ruth and all the rest of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who are champions of the National League and the New York Yanks, who are the champion space grabbers of the universe, are headed for Atlanta, where they will meet in more or less mortal combat at Ponce de Leon park for the glory of their respective organizations and such success as will filter through the turnstiles.

Indications are that the turnstiles will click merrily. Atlanta became a major league exhibition proof, a number of years ago, but from tell-tale inquiries it appears that a sophisticated fan cannot resist the lure of seeing the premier pitcher pounder and the premier slugger in the first of the season.

Famous Brother Act.
The Dodgers and the Yanks have been doing a brother act all over the southern circuit this spring with such a name being used in the electric letters outside. They brothered in Birmingham yesterday and

"TWO AND THREE" "PUTTING THE NEXT ONE OVER" WITH "BUGS" DAER

After piling the champion of Roughtown in action last night, I don't know whether my eyes deceived me or whether my teeth are false, I admit that he leads the soft-shoe court of fighters, but give me the old-fashioned clog. Furthermore, I repeat that your champion is not Gink Fowler, of Roughtown, but an impostor known as Sweet William, of Sweetburg, a town as far from Roughtown as the kick is from bevo. If I am right in this, set me wrong.

HANLEY KNOLES.
JUST ANOTHER of those unanswered epistles booming Gink Fowler to the allegorical heights of glory's ash heap. Gink was a gilded champion of the first water. He was a glutton for the canvas. His record shows that he was the first champion to hang up a record of ten flat. Other fighters claim they were knocked off in nine, eight and seven, but Gink's record stands where he fell.

HIS EASY DEFEAT at the hands of the Masked Marvel indicates the agility of the man. He was handicapped by the fact that there were three men in the ring. He fought all his battles London sporting club style, with the third man outside the ropes. The third citizen bothered Gink last night. In fact, the second man gave him a lot of trouble.

YOU CAN TELL from Gink's style that Johnny Dundee grabbed his system from a close personal of the Roughtown champion's methods. Dundee bounces off the canvas. Same thing. But Gink's style calls for superior resilience in the bouncing department.

WE ARE GLAD that New York has had a chance to see the greatest fighter who ever crossed his right or double-crossed his friends. What a shame he is. Did you see that blocking with the bezel? Did you grab that scientific fall in the fifth round after hope and the audience had dejected? Gink Fowler is the champion of Roughtown. And he will do the effects of that terrible kick to Gink's jaw. But we must admit that the Marvel is a game winner. Like Yale, he is supreme in victory and Gink's defeat is a defeat.

THERE WASN'T ANY doubt as to the ultimate winner after Gink finally fell into his stride and started posing for the portrait on the buffet line.

WHEN HE DROPPED like clipped hair on the barber shop floor the aisle gamblers started to pay off on the winning number. But he came back to a diplomatic silence.

MR. KNOLES' CLAIM that Gink is really Sweet William of Sweetburg is founded on nothing but facts. Therefore we ignore all signed statements and will not to the anonymous verification of our stand on this subject. Gink Fowler is the champion of Roughtown. And he will do the effects of that terrible kick to Gink's jaw. But we must admit that the Marvel is a game winner. Like Yale, he is supreme in victory and Gink's defeat is a defeat.

LET'S HAVE DONE with this petty bickering and support the present administration along the lines laid out in Joe Miller's imperishable archives.

BOB JONES Burke and Downey Both Sure IS PICKED BY CHICK EVANS Tough Boy for Young Stribling

Chicago, April 4.—"Watch Bobby Jones!" This was the admonition of Chick Evans, national golf champion, when asked what he thought of the prospects of the American amateur golf team that will invade England next month to try and win the British championship. Evans discussed the coming match as he darted through the crowds in the downtown streets on his way to keep a business appointment. It was a fine day today to play golf, but Chick was too busy trying to sell bonds.

"Bobby Jones is a contender in any company. He won the southern championship and came within a few strokes of annexing the national championship. You can expect anything from a chap of this type," Chick was asked to talk about himself.

Downey Fine Looking Boy. Downey is almost as tall but is decidedly thicker. He is young and fairly exudes youthfulness. Another Jeffries in the making is the thought that comes. Joe has been a fighter more than a year. He is just emerging from the trial horse battles, through which all his trials well. His manager says that he is nursing him up to a match with Dempsey.

If he is talking seriously, he must have a world of confidence in his big boy, for he is sending him against tough game tonight.

There are few heavyweights existing today who can take the measure of the New Orleans red head. The red head himself declares that it will not be many weeks before all the heavyweights will realize that his foot simply slipped in the Martin bout. He intends to convince Downey tonight.

"What he has got? Downey asked, speaking of Mr. Burke's pugilistic possessions. He was informed that Burke was noted as a body puncher.

Stomach Armor Proof. "Well he won't get far with me then," said Mr. Downey with assurance that could not be fagged. "I'm right about the mid section. Dempsey couldn't hurt me socking me there. It's fairly good proof that Mr. Downey thinks well of himself.

All of which is conducive to the belief that there will be real action at Walk Miller's show. Certainly.

COMMERCIAL HIGH TEAM IS DEFEATED BY TECH HI BOYS

Tech High defeated Commercial High yesterday afternoon by a 2 to 0 score at Piedmont park. The game was a regular prep league game and scheduled to play today, but for unknown reasons was pushed up until yesterday.

The Techs had very little trouble in annexing the game, and took things easy throughout. Starnes, a rookie pitcher, made a creditable game, and looks like a mighty good man for Coach Tolbert to count on during the season.

Behind the bat for Tech High was also good.

Tech High outbatted Commercial High throughout the encounter. The Smithies are credited with 10 hits, while the Pryor sidekicks were lucky to get four. Tom Griffin umpired.

Whoop-ee! The New York Yanks lead the American in pitching strength, outgirding Cleveland in spite of the wonderful luck of the Indians in discovering Duster Mails at the critical minute of last season's fight.

With the Yanks possessing unputed advantage in the pitching department and undoubtedly superiority in the hard-hitting part of the game, their weakness in other spots will have to be aggravated to prevent them from showing an advantage in the dope.

I am starting now to add up the dope figures and discover which teams are strongest, and until the last figure is marked down I will pretend to know which is best, but for a team to lead in heavy hitting and to lead in pitching strength means a more logical chance for the championship than the Yanks appeared to have in spite of all the lusty claims and lurid press-agenting they have secured.

New York and Cleveland Share Honors.

The pitching figures reveal the fact that the real fight for honors in the American this season lies between New York and Cleveland, with the St. Louis Braves looming as the dark horse, the one team with strength enough to stay in the struggle and be in position to take advantage of the situation should either of the stronger teams crack through injuries or hard luck.

Washington figures well up in fourth place, but it is hard to see how and much more consistent than the majority of the critics have been willing to concede it to be. The team has a lot of pitching force, and if Walter Johnson were in command to pitch as many games as he used to do in a season it would be dangerous. Johnson no longer can work close to forty games and he himself, and in spite of his skill in developing pitchers Griffith has yet uncovered another Johnson.

His young talent is promising, and he can by proper use of Shaw and Zachary make the remainder of the staff, which is weak, or some use to him as making a first-class short-handed staff and one which needs another pitcher who could work nearly half of their games, and the strong men be at their best when they work.

One of the tremendous surprises, of course, is the figure strength of the Athletic pitchers. In fact, the farther we go in the dope the more surprises Mack has in store. His pitching staff is fifth, a considerable distance back, of course, but so near

PERRY ADAIR LEADS FIELD AT PINEHURST

Call Money Is Pushed At Wall Street Brokers

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, April 4.—Steel and leather shares were especially soft in today's market which had a declining price tendency. Owing to the scarcity of business, much talk was heard of a 20 per cent reduction by the Steel corporation in the very near future with a corresponding reduction in wages.

Central Leather stood out among the leather shares on rumors that the preferred dividend was to be passed. The common dividend omitted last year as soon as business began to fall off. Since then, according to reports, trade had been poor that last year's profit and loss surplus of over $300,000, has been turned into a deficit. If these rumors are true the directors will have no choice in passing the preferred dividend. If the preferred dividend has been unearned and the profit and loss surplus has been wiped out as a matter of law as well as good financial practice the dividend must be passed.

American Beet Sugar directors met shortly after noon today and passed the 2 per cent quarterly dividend. It was explained that the high price paid for beets, which had been based on the average price for sugar, made such action necessary. Wall street understands that the forthcoming annual report for the twelve months ended March 31, will make a very poor showing. The cane sugar people marketing their crop first cut the ground from under the beet sugar sellers.

More gold was received here today, $4,000,000 coming in on the Holland-American liner Rotterdam and two small shipments from other sources. Call money dropped to 5 per cent on the stock exchange around noon with the rate being offered outside throughout the week down to 5 per cent. Moreover there was so much money available that stock brokers reported that it had actually been "pushed" at them. It is not necessary to go back very far to recall the days when no call money was available at 7 to 10 per cent or higher.

Wall street lost two good friends today through the death of Starr J. Murphy and E. C. Converse. Murphy represented John D. Rockefeller in all of his financial transactions connected with securities. Converse was one of the old-timers.

Studebaker loaned flat here today, which means that there is a large, short interest outstanding and the stock is hard to borrow. It was widely predicted that to borrow the stock within the next few days it would be necessary to pay 10 per cent.

Some very good inside buying in Pacific Oil was reported today by interests identified with Southern Pacific.

With another sensational improvement in the week-end position of the Federal Reserve banks as a whole, thoughtful bankers have reached a point where they are now willing to admit that one more of their predictions has gone wrong. When the war ended our bankers were greatly disturbed by fears that the rest of the world was going to take our large gold holdings away and many protective plans were discussed. But instead of trying to take our gold away the rest of the world seems to be flooding us with the yellow metal. Last week alone the gold reserve of the Federal Reserve system increased $35,674,000, making the gain for the year no less than $288,180,000. Hence the increase in the reserve ratio of the twelve banks as a whole to 52.4 last week against 50.8 a week ago and 42.8 a year ago. The figure last named it should be kept in mind was only a small fraction above the lowest level on record, a position that frightened our bankers and started last year's violent liquidation.

This flood of gold means that the rest of the world owes us money and is paying us off for two reasons: First, to bring about a recovery in their exchange and next to establish credit, mostly loan and finished pro-materials. Every point recovery in exchange reduces the premium that must be paid on purchases here.

This method of balancing accounts and re-establishing sound world-wide financial conditions was wholly unexpected and was a long time in making its appearance. It is a better method than some of the artificial plans that have been seriously discussed, mostly loan and money or credit in one way or another, to foreign customers who did not seem to be able to pay for what they had already bought.

This piling up of gold here for the time being is not going to restore general trade, for business is based on profits and not cheap money; within the past year war paper rediscounted by the twelve Federal Reserve banks has decreased four hundred and ninety-nine millions while commercial paper has actually increased two hundred and sixty-four millions. There is much liquidation of loans and labor to take place before general trade is ready to again start up actively. But this much is certain the improvement in the position of the banks makes this readjustment easier; and with gold piling up and general trade at low tide it is only a question of time until easy money will be reflected in an active rising stock market.

New York, April 4.—The unsettling influence of the British labor causes caused a break of about 30 to 40 points in the cotton market during today's trading. May contracts sold off to 11.50 or within 18 points of the previous record, but rather a steadier tone developed during the afternoon on encouraging news from Liverpool, and May closed at 11.51, with the general list closing steady at a net loss of only 10 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of six to eighteen points, which was only a very partial response to the lower Liverpool cables. There was considerable trade and the market was fairly active at start, but the south was a seller, while there was also Liverpool selling here and prices showed a decline. The continued weakness of the English markets was a local factor, and the British premier is expected to resign, and may close at 11.45, with the general list closing steady at a net loss of only 10 points.

Robert Mantell at His Best In Bulwer's Classic Story

Robert Mantell's artistry is never better displayed than in "Richelleu." For that reason it is fortunate that he opened a week's engagement at the Atlanta theater, otherwise devoted to Shakespearean repertoire, with Bulwer's classic story of the great cardinal.

No matter how thorough, how scholarly, an actor's presentation of a creature of the bard's brain may be, the actor's work must always yield precedence to the master's plays.

But though Lord Lytton's play abounds in stately periods admirably adapted to the finished reader as Mr. Mantell, though the lines contain soliloquies and philosophies as familiar to the audience as the Psalms, the audience is always permitted to see the artist rather than become immersed in the greatness of the spoken script.

Character Many Sided. The "Richelleu" of Mr. Mantell is as many sided as was the great French statesman. Though Bulwer's story tells of the cardinal's declining years, Mr. Mantell does not forget, nor does he permit his audience to forget, that the aged and tottering cardinal is the same man who in his early years was a brilliant soldier and statesman.

Richelleu is not a politician succeeding solely by Machiavellian methods, which no politician ever did. Rather, he is a politician of the school that is as old as government, a man ruling by his knowledge of human desires and human frailties and gratifying those desires and forgetting those frailties.

Mantell's Richelleu is a winning, entirely human character, which the actor so developed that he was decidedly more appealing in his close intimacies than when in his more traditional way he declared the pen mightier than the sword, blotted

"fall" from the bright lexicon of youth and hurried the curse of Rome. However, let it not be inferred that Mr. Mantell did not arise to the heights in the more pretentious passages. His protection of "Julie," the frail old man, still eager to fight against insuperable odds, the statesman glories in his opportunity to serve his land, were all splendidly done and enthusiastically acclaimed.

It is useless to enlarge on the actor's qualities. He still reads, as he has always read since departing from matinee idol roles, with a scholarship that is not only an actor's but a scholar's. With a convincing Marlowe, and with a convincing Richelleu, it is distinctly a one-part play, but it served the purpose of Monday night, of showing Atlanta that William Mantell has surrounded himself with an entirely adequate company. Miss Genevieve Hamper was a dainty, flowery Julie, intensely feminine and especially delicate in her scenes with the cardinal, where she made the maidenly sweetness of the part in the costume of a young girl, a young girl, a young girl.

PRESIDENT HEARS VIEWS OF LABOR

Washington, April 4.—President Harding in continuing his inquiry into the views of labor which were presented to him by A. B. Garretson, former head of the Order of Railway Conductors, and M. J. Jewell, president of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor.

After their conferences both men said they had discussed the situation generally but had received no information from the president as to his attitude or the policy he might have in mind.

Mr. Harding, they said, told them he was seeking information and wished to hear all sides of the question.

Mr. Jewell had been to Washington at the president's request and was in conference with him at different times during the afternoon, each spending half an hour in his office.

Mr. Harding was understood to have pressed his contention, expressed to the president last week in a telegram, that the war-time wage agreement entered into between the carriers and their employees had not been automatically abrogated by the return of the roads to private control.

Mr. Garretson said he had also discussed the wage question with the president in connection with a review of all phases of the transportation question.

No indication was given at the white house today as to whether other railroad labor leaders would be asked to come to Washington to discuss their views before a congress convenes next Monday.

Mr. Harding was understood to have pressed his contention, expressed to the president last week in a telegram, that the war-time wage agreement entered into between the carriers and their employees had not been automatically abrogated by the return of the roads to private control.

Mr. Garretson said he had also discussed the wage question with the president in connection with a review of all phases of the transportation question.

No indication was given at the white house today as to whether other railroad labor leaders would be asked to come to Washington to discuss their views before a congress convenes next Monday.
